

Ordinary Time

The summer solstice has passed, leaving behind the memory of a bright pause. As we step into July, we have already crossed the year's longest day, that magnificent peak of light and warmth that stands as our seasonal threshold. Though we are now moving into a period where the days are already beginning to shorten, the radiant energy of our sister sun still lingers. We are invited to pause, step back from the frantic rush of our daily demands and responsibilities, to notice the subtle changes shifting around us and within us. Let us take a slow, collective breath together.

Light traditionally represents clarity, divine presence and the absolute fullness of life. Yet, the solstice always holds a profound, quiet paradox. At the very moment the sun reached its highest point in the sky, the cosmic wheel turned. This makes this post-solstice season a perfect focal point for self-reflection: a natural boundary for looking backward at where we have been, while turning our intentional gaze toward where we are going as the nights gently lengthen.

Often, we find ourselves drawn to look for meaning only in the massive, dramatic milestones of existence. We chase those life-changing mountain top moments, but the vast majority of our lives is not lived on the peaks. Instead, it is lived in what many spiritual and religious traditions beautifully call 'ordinary time.'

Right now, the Anglican church calendar rests in a long, quiet period known explicitly as Ordinary Time. During these extended months, it is remarkably easy to feel completely lost in the mundane and repetitive intervals of the everyday. We get caught in the endless, exhausting cycle of washing dishes, commuting through heavy traffic, folding laundry, and waiting. It is easy to feel stuck in the greyness of routine, constantly wishing for something flashier, louder, or more exciting to happen. Feeling rather left out, that everyone else's life looks better than yours! Yet, the ordinary is the quiet fabric of our day-to-day existence. It is found in walking the dog, hearing birdsong outside a kitchen window, sharing a simple meal with a loved one, or breathing deeply in a quiet room. These moments are not merely empty space filling the gaps between life's major events. They are the very ground where the sacred resides. When we slow down enough to actually notice them, these ordinary fragments reveal themselves as profound, unexpected blessings.

Perhaps this period of time can invite us to bring the bright light of awareness into these overlooked spaces. Looking back at that recent seasonal peak, we can reflect with genuine gratitude on the quiet, steady rhythms that have sustained us through the months. Simultaneously, we look forward, preparing to carry that internal warmth and light into the coming darker months of autumn and winter.

By honouring the ordinary, we discover a steady anchor that connects us all through the shared human experience of the present moment. Moments do not have to be thrilling to be holy. By acknowledging the ordinary parts of life without judgment, we learn to cultivate a quiet, steady peace that does not depend on constant external excitement. As you sit in the space of transition, let the lingering summer light illuminate your own journey, revealing the sacred hiding within your daily routine.

A Prayer for Ordinary Time

Creator of the seasons, thank you for the bright peak of the solstice and the steady rhythm of the days. Bring your light into our quiet, overlooked spaces, and open our eyes to see the holy in the mundane. Grant us the patience to find you in our daily chores, the grace to rest in your presence and a steady peace to sustain us as the days shorten. Amen.

Warm July blessings, Revd Skye

What to quote in July?

July in the West by James Newton Matthews
DAY

A rhythm of reapers; a flashing
Of steels in the meadows; a lashing
Of sheaves in the wheatlands; a glitter
Of grain-built streets, and a twitter
Of birds in a motionless sky,—

And that is July!

A rustle of corn-leaves; a tinkle
Of bells on the hills; a twinkle
Of sheep in the lowlands; a bevy
Of bees where the clover is heavy;
A butterfly blundering by,—
And that is July!

NIGHT

A moon-flooded prairie; a straying
Of light-hearted lovers; a baying
Of far away watchdogs; a dreaming
Of brown-fisted farmers; a gleaming
Of fireflies eddying nigh,—

And that is July!

A babble of brooks that deliver
Their flower-purple waves to the river;
A moan in the marshes; in thickets
A dolorous droning of crickets,
Attuned to a whippoorwill's cry,—
And that is July!

Nature notes: What to see and hear in July?

July is a good month to enjoy wildflowers, particularly abundant on Marston's many meadows. One plant you will see is common knapweed, with its thistle-like mauve/purple flowers, much loved by insects including day flying moths. Look out for common spotted orchids (the UK's most common orchid) found in a range of habitats including grassland. They have towering spikes of pinkish flowers and spotty green leaves. Dragonflies and damselflies are out in force this month. On long summer evenings look out for bats feasting on insects. If the summer heat is too much, staying inside with an uplifting nature book is recommended.

Lunch Club

..meets on 31 July for quiche, cheese potato and veggies, fruit jelly and icecream. Ring Debbie (01865 580354) to book your place.

What to cook in July?

Fresh Fruit Pavlova

Ingredients

For the meringue

4 egg whites (approx. 140g)
1 tbsp lemon juice
200g caster sugar
1 tsp cornflour

For the topping

400g hulled and halved strawberries
200g raspberries
200g blueberries
(or any berries you fancy)
25g icing sugar

For the cream

300g crème fraîche
25g icing sugar
¼ tsp vanilla extract

Method

Line a large baking sheet with baking parchment and heat the oven to 120C/100C fan/gas ½.

Put the egg whites into a large and totally grease-free bowl. Continue to beat until stiff peaks are formed. Thoroughly fold in the sugar a little at a time. Sprinkle in the cornflour and add the lemon juice and fold into the mixture. Spoon the meringue mixture onto the baking sheet to form a circle, creating a large dip in the middle. Bake for 1 hour and then turn the oven off, leaving the meringue inside, preferably overnight, until completely cool.

For the topping, tip the strawberries into a large bowl and dust with icing sugar.

Whisk the crème fraîche, icing sugar and vanilla extract together. Gently mix all the fruit together. When you are ready to serve, spoon the cream into the centre of the meringue base and top with the berries. Best kept in the fridge.

Marston Community Players

The Quiz Night, organised by Marston Community Players, was a great success, with a fun-filled evening and lots of prizes won. Amazing what some people know about flags (10 out of 10 for our winning team!) and....the World Cup (10 out of 10 for our runners up!). While distributing flyers for the event at the Marston Community Market on 20 June I learned that there used to be a Marston Players drama group. We'd love to know more: when did it flourish? Does anyone know what happened to its members?

Our next production will be Fondly Remembered - a play by Gareth Armstrong - to be performed on the weekend of 21 and 22 November. The play is about four theatrically minded friends who meet to plan the memorial service for their late friend. It blends plenty of laughs with moments of genuine poignancy. If you'd like to audition for the play, please contact Sarah using the email address above and she'll send you more information.

A view from Elsfield

Fox-Human encounter

It has to have been 25 or 30 years ago. My friend Paul, aka Katanga, sadly no longer with us, and I are walking through Woodeaton Wood when a dog fox appears before us.

It's not so much that foxes change their behaviour during the mating season, but they become more visible and audible. We stop, stand silent and the fox comes up to us sniffing the air. It's curious rather than fearful, eyes sharp as knapped flints. It circles us, pauses, decides we're not worth the time of day and saunters off the track into the cover.

That's not something you see every day we agree.

We continue our walk through the January wood, out towards the old Roman kiln site but with light steps, feeling good, feeling elated having witnessed something special.

Fast forwards to last winter in London. A colleague and I are returning to Waterloo and the Union Jack Club after dinner. We're talking about the day's work when an urban fox appears from the left, casts a speculative, indifferent gaze at us, then wanders away between the parked cars.

'That used to be a rare sight' she says, 'but now they're everywhere'.

Foxes, eh? Whatever next?

Old Marston Parish Council Report - June

The PC had no objections to a planning application from 31 Old Marston Road (which falls just outside the parish). OCC advised the PC that applications from 1 Mill Lane, 80 Arlington Drive, 32 Oxford Road and 24 Ashlong Road have all been approved, while one from 22 Raymund Road has been refused and another from 7 Southcroft has been withdrawn.

The pavilion's alarm has been going off. The contractor has investigated and replaced a faulty door sensor and the duration of its ring has been reduced from 15 to 5 minutes. The engineer states that this still complies with insurance requirements. Apologies for the disturbance caused to the neighbouring area.

There have been some issues regarding the cutting of grass by the new contractor. The Clerk has tried several times to contract the contractor to get the grass cut as soon as possible. The Clerk is also chasing up the contractor regarding the failure to empty public litter bins. He has even emptied the bin in the Mill Lane playing field himself, as a temporary measure. Again, he is contacting the contractor to resolve the situation. Apologies to all for the inconvenience. (The Clerk is a saint, ed)

The PC has taken on the responsibility for maintaining Back Lane, employing a contractor to prune the vegetation, even though this is the County Council's responsibility.

The Orchard Triangle at the end of Raymund Road, next to Saint Nicholas Primary School, is also being maintained to bring it back to an area enjoyed and used by many. A bin is being installed next to the bench.

The clerk, Tim Cann, can be contacted by phone (07341 758889) Mon to Wed from 9am until 1pm. Otherwise a message can be left or emailed via: clerk@oldmarston-pc.gov.uk For information, agendas, minutes of meetings etc go to <https://www.oldmarston-pc.gov.uk> X, Facebook, WhatsApp, Instagram or BlueSky.
